Statement on Public Health Emergency

During several press conferences, Governor Lou Leon Guerrero indicated her intent to extend the public health emergency while lifting some restrictions implemented through the Social Isolation Directive and Department of Public Health and Social Services (DPHSS) Guidance Memoranda 2020-01, 02, and 05. Though the current public health emergency will be extended, it does not prevent relaxing any current restrictions, as shown through the lifting of road closures. A public health emergency declaration is still necessary as long as some measures remain to prevent further spread of the virus. An executive order formally extending the public health emergency has not yet been signed.
